NAZIS REPULSED AT SALERNO BRIDGEHEAD

Berlin Bombed in Widespread Aerial Assault

British and American Troops Lash Out At Enemy To Clinch A Foothold On Italian Soil

General Clark Launches Offensive on Eighth Day of Biggest Battle Yet Fought in Mediterranean and Throws Back German Forces

SAYS ADDITIONAL TROOPS LANDING EVERY DAY

BY WES GALLAGHER

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Sept. 16.—(P)—Sweating British and American soldiers of the Fifth Army have lashed out at the Germans, driving them back from the Salerno bridgehead, and have clinched their foothold in Italy, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark announced today.

Gen. Clark launched his offensive this morning on the eighth day of the biggest battle yet fought in the Mediterranean, and threw the German armored forces back to the junction of the rivers Sele and Colore north of Altavilla in the central sector of the 27-mile front.

Simultaneously, Gen. Clark in an order of the day to his troops, declared "our bridgehead is secure. Additional troops are landing every day and we are here to stay. Not one foot of ground will be given up."

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army, racing northward toward Sappi, but 39 miles from the southern anchor of the Fifth Army's front, was mentioned by Clark, who said "in a matter of hours its presence will be felt by the enemy."

A military spokesman said the Germans were in flight in the Salerno sector for the first time since the original landings eight days ago and that this morning's assault was "the first serious offensive thrust we have been able to make since getting on the beach."

Reinforcements pouring into the bridgehead during the past 48 hours made the drive possible, he said.

While the terrific fight raged back and forth under the thunder of 15-inch guns from British battleships and the artillery of lesser warships, Allied naval might poured a flood of reinforcements into the area.

Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army, composed equally of British and Americans, was now the largest Allied force engaged in a single battle since the Mediterranean war started, and it was supported again yesterday by more than 2,000 sorties flown by the powerful northwestern African air force and separate raids by Middle East heavy bombers.

The entire Allied air force thus joined the struggle for the second straight day and hurled hundreds of tons of explosives upon the Germans' position with earth-shaking barrages.

With unchallengeable control of the sea, the Allies exploited the advantage to the utmost by moving their mobile naval batteries up close to the beached, smoking beaches and hurling tons of screaming steel into the teeth of the Germans. The British battleships Valiant and Warspite with their 15-inch rifles joined in the bombardment.

Gen. Clark toured the fiery arena, cheering begrimed Tommies and Doughboys with his presence at the advanced positions where he told the troops that every soldier must fight to the last and that there must be no withdrawals.

Casualties in this seven-day battle have been the heaviest of any in the Mediterranean fighting.

At least four German divisions had been identified in the action against the 27-mile front, and more were being brought up. It was probable that as many as five had been employed in the all-out effort to smash the Allied grip.

The magnitude and fierceness of the battle undoubtedly was draining German strength even more rapidly than Marshal Erwin Rommel's effort in Africa.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth Army, racing dramatically up the Italian west coast, with the Italian toe behind it, passed through the ancient fighting village of Scala, approximately 50 miles inland southeast of Agropoli, the southern anchor of Gen. Clark's position, Allied headquarters announced.

RAIL CENTER OBJECTIVE OF RED ADVANCE

Soviet Columns Apparently Aiming Main Thrust at Kiev-Poltava-Lozovaya Junction

BULLETIN

London, Sept. 16.—(P)—Russian forces have captured Novorossisk, the Black Sea naval base in the German bridgehead on the Caucasus. Moscow announced today in a broadcast. Premier Joseph Stalin disclosed the capture in a special order of the day, recorded here by the Soviet monitor.

London, Sept. 16.—(P)—Battering their way across the central Ukraine plains toward the vital Dnieper river defense wall, approximately 70 miles to the west, Red Army columns which captured Nezhin, yesterday apparently were aiming their main thrust today against the Kiev-Poltava-Lozovaya railway, severance of which would isolate German armies to the north and south.

Capture of Nezhin, a main bastion of Nazi defenses before the Dnieper barrier, already has cut all but one rail link between the enemy forces operating in the central and southern sectors of the Ukraine. If the Red Army spearhead can cut the Kiev-Poltava (Turn To Page Eleven)

Grim News For Axis Reported In Dispatches

BY ROGER GREENE

Associated Press War Editor
Grim news for the Germans came from two vital war fronts today—Italy and Russia—as the U. S. 5th army hurled the Nazis back from the Salerno bridgehead and Soviet troops captured the big Black Sea naval base at Novorossisk in the Caucasus.

The fall of Novorossisk, long and bitterly defended by the Germans, threw the entire Nazi position in the Caucasus into jeopardy and probably meant that the Germans would soon be forced to retreat across Kerch Strait into the Crimea.

On the Italian front, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark announced that the American 5th army, after eight days of bloody fighting against German counterattacks, has now definitely secured the invasion bridgehead at Salerno, 20 miles south of Naples.

So far, he said, the forces on both sides have been about evenly matched numerically. The Germans have the advantage of interior communication lines, he added, enabling them to bring up reinforcements and supplies more quickly than the Allies. The Germans also have probably a preponderance of tanks and heavy equipment, he said.

The heavy opposition encountered in the Salerno area was expected, Stimson continued, and constituted a risk undertaken deliberately because the prospects of success warranted it.

Australians Backing Japs Into A Trap

Jungle Troops Batter Thru Pillboxes and Trenches In Approach to Lae

GARRISON WIPED OUT

BY OLEN CLEMENTS
Allied Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, Sept. 16.—(P)—Backing the Japanese into a death trap where they are forced to fight, Allied jungle troops have battered through pillboxes, trenches and machinegun nests with the air of artillery and planes to bring nearer the fall of the big air base of Lae, New Guinea.

East of Lae, Australians are only two miles from the center of the coastal town and are about to overrun the prized Malahang airbase.

On the west, where the intricate defenses were breached after hours of fighting, another force in the Markham valley is only five miles away.

To the south, Americans and Australians who annihilated most of a Japanese garrison in capturing the airbase and harbor town of Salamaua, left behind patrols to hunt down the surviving stragglers and moved in force more than half way along the 18 miles of jungle trail separating the two Huon Gulf bases.

The Japanese, tricked by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's strategy into believing the main Allied push would be made below Salamaua, have offered scarcely any opposition until now to pincer forces which landed from the sea above Lae September 4 and from transport planes behind Lae September 5.

Today's communique reported the capture in the Markham Valley of three defended plantations.

Japanese Planes Raid In Solomons

Washington, Sept. 16.—(P)—Japanese planes, in the first raid on American positions in the Solomons in two months, inflicted minor damage in two attacks, the navy reported today.

Both raids were carried out during the night of September 13-14. Solomons time, when a group of enemy planes hit at the Lunga Point airfield on Guadalcanal, and a lone Japanese bomber attempted to attack the nearby Russell Islands.

Minor damage was caused by bombs dropped at Lunga Point, site of Henderson airfield, while on Russell Island, 52 miles away, no damage resulted.

The navy added that there were no personnel casualties in either raid.

NAVY TO CALL 533,000 MEN DURING FALL

Admiral Randall Jacobs, Personnel Chief, Tells Senate Committee Needs Rest of Year Will Be Great

OPPOSES LOWER DRAFT

Washington, Sept. 16.—(P)—The navy needs to draft 533,000 men to meet its manpower requirements the last four months of this year, Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, naval personnel chief, today told the senate military committee, which is surveying the necessity for drafting fathers.

This means selective service will be called upon to furnish upward of a million men by Dec. 31, since army spokesmen testified yesterday that inductions will vary from 145,000 to 175,000 a month for the rest of 1943 to build up an army of 7,700,000 men.

In response to a question, Jacobs stated that a lowering of the draft age from 18 to 17 would "increase the percentage of rejections considerably."

Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) tossed this new angle into the second day of the hearings.

Asserting that "some have advocated" the induction of youths of 17 in preference to taking pre-World War fathers, Reynolds said his question was intended solely to obtain Admiral Jacobs' views.

The witness replied that while the navy accepted many 17-year-olds for enlistment, many others were rejected because they were not mature enough for service.

Senatorial opponents of the father draft gave ground today before the unanimous testimony of military leaders that the armed forces will have to put nearly a half million family heads into uniform this year to make victory certain.

While Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) remained publicly confident that he can win approval next week of legislation to postpone the induction of pre-World War fathers until after Jan. 1, there were signs that the high command's opposition had made inroads into the ranks of the bill's supporters.

Wheeler said his views had not been changed by the testimony. Nevertheless, he conceded that the military opposition would make it more difficult to get the bill passed.

Islands Off Turkish Coast Are Occupied

London, Sept. 16.—(P)—Allied occupation of two island outposts to the Balkans, in a move strikingly similar to operations which preceded the invasion of Italy, was reported in dispatches from Ankara today.

One account said that the Greek island of Samos and the Dodecanese island of Lero, off the Turkish coast and about 150 miles north of German-held Crete, were occupied three days ago—the day before Great Britain's Ninth Army was reported to have embarked from its Middle East bases 400 miles across the Mediterranean in Syria and Transjordan.

Lero, 30 miles from the Turkish mainland, is a valuable seaplane base and also was used by the Italians as a base for light naval craft. Samos is a much larger Greek island, 40 miles further north, with two of the best air-dromes in the Aegean Sea. Both islands are north of the Italian island of Rhodes.

There was no indication in the Ankara dispatches as to what type of forces were used in the reported occupation operations, but a Stockholm dispatch yesterday said the British Ninth Army, headed by Lt. Gen. W. H. Holmes, had sailed from its Middle East bases after two years of intensive training.

Treasury and Congress In Standoff Over New Tax Bill

BY FRANCIS M. LE MAY

Washington, Sept. 16.—(P)—A big question mark hovered over the search for new billions of wartime revenue today as the house ways and means committee postponed indefinitely the opening of hearings on the 1944 general tax measure.

However, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said he still had hopes the measure, which no doubt would embrace new and higher levies, could be enacted by January 1.

The hearings had been set tentatively to begin next Monday, but it was understood neither the treasury nor the congressional staff, recently at loggerheads and apparently unable to work together, was ready to present a program.

This situation brought a sharp statement from the Republican side of the ways and means committee, by Rep. Mead of New York, who said "no concrete proposals have yet been made, due largely to the president's inability to reconcile conflicting viewpoints within his administration," although the president "as long ago as last January requested a $16,000,000,000 increase in revenues."

Read said he favored committee consideration of tax legislation without waiting for the administration's proposals.

Harrisburg, Sept. 16.—(P)—Party leaders set out today to heal breaches resulting from primary contests with little more than six weeks remaining before rival Republican and Democratic slates will be put before the voters in the Nov. 2 general election. State Senator M. Harvey Taylor, GOP chieftain, declared "certainly factions should get together now," while David L. Lawrence, Democratic leader, asserted "we had a few leaders" and indicated he expected a minimum of adjustments would be necessary.

Scattered local contests for control of party organizations enlivened the primary somewhat but the vote sagged far below normal. Party heads blamed war and the industrial boom and said there was little prospect of arousing more interest in the November balloting. (Turn To Page Eight)

Peace Resolution Debated In Senate

Washington, Sept. 16.—(P)—The house majority leadership took drastic steps today—with Republican acquiescence—to avoid a floor battle over a postwar anti-aggression resolution, but rumblings of a senate fight were heard after Senator Connally (D-Tex) suggested a peace-by-force commitment.

The house foreign affairs committee decided late yesterday to forestall any possible show of disunity by calling up the Fulbright peace resolution next Monday under suspension of the rules, a procedure which will bar amendments but will require a two thirds vote to pass.

The resolution would place congress on record as favoring American participation with other countries in establishing and maintaining a just and lasting peace. Speaker Rayburn said "liberal time," possibly all afternoon—would be allowed for debate.

VITAL PLANTS ON CONTINENT ARE TARGETS

Rubber Factory at Mountlucan in France and Aircraft Works and Airfields Visited By RAF

EIGHT FAIL TO RETURN

BULLETIN

London, Sept. 16.—(P)—American Flying Fortresses, following up an inaugural dusk raid on Hitler's Europe and probably the Allies' biggest night assault on the continent, bombed naval installations at Nantes in France today in their second foray in two days.

BY GLADWIN HILL

London, Sept. 16.—(P)—Berlin was bombed last night in a widespread Allied aerial assault which included a heavy raid on a vital rubber factory at Montlucan in France and followed evening attacks on Paris air craft plants and surrounding French air fields by U. S. Eighth air force squadrons making their first dusk flight.

It was the pre-dawn hours of Sept. 4 and presumably was carried out by the RAF's swift Mosquito bombers which pummeled the German capital between the saturation attacks by fleets of four engined craft.

Other RAF bombers struck at additional targets in northwest Germany, the air ministry announced.

Montlucan, only 43 miles northwest of Vichy, was the principal target of the night flying formations which concentrated on a factory supplying much needed tires for Hitler's war machine.

The Vichy radio said the town of Chartres also was attacked, but the British announcement made no mention of this.

Succinylsulfathiazole Halts Infant Ailment

Chicago, Sept. 16.—(P)—One of the new sulfa drugs produced remarkable improvement in 11 cases of epidemic infant diarrhea, a highly fatal disease now reappearing in the midwest, the journal of the American Medical Association reported today.

The drug is succinylsulfathiazole, a comparatively new sulfonamide, which has been used mostly for treatment of bacillary dysentery and for preparation of patients for surgery of the large bowel.

Dr. Allan H. Twyman and Dr. George R. Horton of Indianapolis said the new sulfonamide greatly reduced the 11 newborn babies but offered no explanation for its success, pointing out that no specific cause of the disease has been found.

The death rate of diarrhea is usually about 50 per cent.

Rationing of Fluid Milk Is Possibility

BY OVID A. MARTIN

Washington, Sept. 16.—(P)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones will lay before the senate banking committee Friday a critical milk production problem which, if unsolved, might lead to rationing of fluid milk this winter and to higher ration values on butter, cheese and canned milk. ### "Just the Beginning of War" Morgenthau Warns in Address

Washington, Sept. 16.—(P)—"This is the beginning of the war, as far as the United States is concerned—this attack we are launching in Italy."

With those words, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau called on Americans last night to put aside "criminal" over-confidence in victory and to "back this attack."

As an example of war's cost in material alone, Morgenthau declared our equipment losses in Sicily exceeded 50 per cent in some categories.

The treasury chief, who warned that the Third War Loan drive now in progress will not be the last, addressed a nationwide radio audience shortly after the treasury announced first-week sales of $5,059,000,000—more than a third of the $15,000,000,000 goal.

Emphasizing that he was speaking not of the present "critical" Italian campaign but only of the conquest of Sicily—"merely an outpost of the fortress of Europe"—Morgenthau said, "listen to what it cost us" in addition to killed and wounded.

The Allies lost, he said, 13 per cent of all 155 MM Howitzers landed in the month-long campaign, 46 per cent of all 57 MM guns put into action, 13 per cent of all guns employed, 8 per cent of all medium tanks, seven per cent of all light tanks, 54 per cent of the carriages for the 377 MM guns, 56 per cent of the motor carriages for the 75 MM guns and 22 per cent of the carriages for the 105 MM Howitzers.

Interest In Grid Festival Is Increasing

Interest in the "football festival" at Russell Field Saturday afternoon is mounting by leaps and bounds. It now appears that many of the boys on the third and fourth teams are drilling faithfully in the hopes that they will be able to demonstrate to Coach Leidig and his staff that they deserve to be shifted to the first or second squads.

Drills are being held every afternoon and all concerned are confident that an afternoon of real sport will be uncorrupted for the fans who attend.

Not only the players but the students are aroused over the plans for the afternoon, and indications are that a great crowd will be in the student section to cheer the warriors in the three games that are scheduled.

You'll miss something really out of the ordinary in football excitement if you fail to be at Russell Field Saturday afternoon.

Approximately 21,000,000 visitors saw the U. S. National Parks during 1941.

Instructions In Accident Prevention To Be Given By Local Chapter of Red Cross

Free instructions on Home and Farm Accident Prevention is being offered by the local Chapter, American Red Cross in a series of classes which will be held in Warren and Sheffield beginning Monday, September 20th.

J. Roy Zoller, Red Cross instructor from National Headquarters, will spend two weeks in Warren conducting classes five nights each week. Each night's class will last three hours. Classes will be held in Warren one night, in Sheffield the second night and alternate between the two towns over the two week period. Monday night's class will be held at the Y. W. C. A., on Tuesday, sessions will be held in Sheffield, alternating between the two towns every other night.

The American Red Cross plans on reaching hundreds of communities this year with this intensified program of Home and Farm Accident Prevention. According to C. J. Cray, chapter chairman, the high percentage of deaths and injuries to persons in the home and on the farm has caused a serious threat to the nation's man power. For this reason the Warren County Chapter is sponsoring these courses in the hopes that many will be drawn to them and receive concrete benefits from the instruction.

Factory and industrial representatives are urged to enroll before Monday at Red Cross Headquarters, 404 Market street. Members of the faculty of the High School and Beatty Junior High are given a special invitation to enroll in this 5 day course. Accident prevention is a recognized and approved course of study in many Pennsylvania schools and where local boards of education have seen fit to approve such courses of study considerable benefit has been noticed.

Part of the Red Cross program are the hazard check list issued for farmers and school children. In the schools, the home list serves as a guide for teachers conducting year-round safety programs. Eight common accidents are listed and their causes, each furnishing a topic for discussion.

Robert Endress is chairman of the first air, life saving and accident prevention committee of the local Red Cross Chapter. He and his committee have been busy recruiting members for the new classes which will start on Monday. The committee expects that 20 or 25 first Aid instructors will be enrolled plus many more who are alive to the importance of this subject and its relations to the war effort.

"Even though accidents in industry have been reduced by 50 percent in the last twenty-five years", Mr. Endress said, "in 1942 there were 32,000 workers who died in accidents while away from their jobs. Most of these fatalities occurred in the home where injuries amounted to more than 4 million and costs reached $600,000,000."

Supplemental List Of Men and Women In Service Sought

Responding to the request that families notify the Times-Mirror of omissions in its service list published in Tuesday's Sylvania Welcome Edition, a number of readers have already called and listed the names of their boys in the armed forces. Others are asked to call, also, so that a supplemental list may be published as soon as it can be compiled.

Church Leader Spent Morning In This City

Bishop Tucker officiated for a similar consecration service in Harrisburg on Wednesday and was accompanied by a number of other high Episcopal leaders, also participating in the Erie service.

There were many from Warren in attendance at the service and for the luncheon which followed in St. Paul's Chapter House.

Help War Prisoners

A total of 44,235 sports articles was shipped from its Geneva headquarters to war prisoners in Europe during the past year, according to information War Prisoners Aid of the Young Men's Christian Association has just received from Switzerland.

In addition to sports equipment, the Geneva office sent 4,124 musical instruments with 8,324 orchestras and pieces of sheet music, 10,274 phonograph records and 591 phonographs, 6,486 articles of artists' equipment, 3,011 plays with 399 manuals on theatrical art and 762 stage accessories.

A total of 128,573 indoor games, including table tennis, checkers, chess, cards and dice were sent to the prisoners. As much as possible, War Prisoners Aid strives to meet the individual needs of prisoners, but shipping facilities of necessity limit the work that can be done in this field.

War Prisoners Aid has New York offices at 347 Madison Avenue. It is a participant in the National War Fund.

BT (Basic Training) 9's in Formation at the "West Point of the Air"

The Aviation Cadets in these three BT 9's first held the controls of a plane some fifteen weeks ago. They are pictured above on a training flight from Randolph Field, Texas, the "West Point of the Air." In another fifteen weeks they'll receive their wings and be ready to take their places at the front with the U. S. Army Air Forces.

Aviation Cadets of the U. S. Army Air Forces, at Randolph Field, Texas, the "West Point of the Air," learn to fly many different types of planes. Learning to fly at Randolph Field means more than just being able to pilot a ship; it means knowing your plane from the motor to the tail, from the ground up. In addition to flight instruction, classes are given in mechanics and motor repair, engineering and shop practice, armament, code practice and signal communications, and other technical subjects.

"Many months of painstaking instructions are given Aviation Cadets before they become flying officers of the AAF. No safety precaution is omitted, nor is any phase of training that might add to the flyers' skill and ability short cut. In consequence, the record of accidents in Aviation training is surprisingly low, the percentage of successful graduates unusually high. And the battle record of our flyers against the enemy is four to one, and sometimes as high as ten to one."

Squadron Commander Stone, said today.

The new Reception Center procedure, effective August 1, 1943, makes it possible for men to volunteer to become Aviation Cadets during their processing and before assignment to other services. Men between 18 and 26, inclusive, who have not yet been ordered for induction, may apply at Aviation Cadet Recruiting Headquarters, 303 Second Ave., Warren, Pa., where offices are maintained by Civil Air Patrol for the Army Air Forces. This office will be open this evening from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m., to furnish interested persons with complete details and further information.

"It would cost many thousands of dollars for any young man to get for himself the air training which the Army gives him at good pay," Lt. Stone concluded. "Aviation Cadets receive $75.00 monthly while in training, with a $10,000 Life Insurance policy paid by the Government. Upon becoming flying officers, their pay initially ranges from $205.50 to $245.00 per month. Promotion is rapid because of the big expansion of the Army Air Forces."

Donald Vicini, who has been for some time in the Norfolk Navy yards, is home on military leave, and is reporting to the local draft board for induction into the armed services.

AMERICAN HEROES' DAY

Today has been set aside in the Third War Loan Drive as American Heroes' Day. In this connection a well known author and poet, who prefers to remain anonymous, has written the following verse, entitled "The Young Soldiers Do Not Speak," a statement put, as it were, in the mouths of the dead:

The young soldiers do not speak.
Nevertheless they are heard in the still houses;
who has not heard them?

They have a silence that speaks for them at night and when the clock counts.

They say, "We were young. We have died. Remember us."

They say, "We have done what we could but until it is finished it is not done."

They say, "We have given our lives but until it is finished no one can know what our lives gave."

They say, "Our deaths are not ours. They are yours: They will mean what you make them."

They say, "Whether our lives and our deaths were for peace and a new hope or for nothing we cannot say: It is you who must say this."

They say, "We leave you our deaths. Give them their meaning. Give them an end to the war and a true peace: Give them a victory that ends the war and a peace afterwards. Give them their meaning."

"We were young," they say. "We have died. Remember us!"

ACCIDENT PREVENTION CAMPAIGN

Accidents in the home are seldom dramatic; they seldom get headline attention in the papers. Yet in 1942, out of a total of 102,500 dead, some 31,500 persons were killed in the home. Thousands more were injured, some permanently disabled.

What happened to them? They fell off a chair, slipped on a rug, took the wrong bottle from the medicine chest, handled faulty electric wiring.

A little care and thoughtfulness would have eliminated this sorrow and suffering to thousands of American homes.

What was the effect on the war effort? In 1942 victory was delayed by the loss of millions of working hours. Thousands of soldiers and sailors could have been supplied war materials produced in the time wasted. Moreover, hospital space, medical care and supplies, sorely needed for our armed forces were used by civilians who exposed themselves to unnecessary danger.

What is the Red Cross doing about this? Through certified courses in home and farm accident prevention it proposes to train a corps of accident-wise persons who will light red danger signals in their own homes and farms.

If you are interested in taking this course in accident prevention ring up your Red Cross Chapter and enroll at once. It won't cost much in time and effort and it may save you many dollars.

REGISTER TO VOTE

The C. I. O. is making a special drive to assure that every one of its members, said to number 5,000,000, and their families, shall be registered this fall to vote. Sidney Hillman and his C. I. O. associates are to be commended on this campaign. It is inspired, presumably, by the organization's desire to punish those whom it considers enemies, and to reward those regarded as friends. With its yardstick of friendship, we do not necessarily agree. But we do agree that every C. I. O. member should register and vote.

By the same token, we believe that every other American citizen—union, non-union, employer, capitalist, farmer, professional—should register to vote. If you agree with Mr. Hillman's politics, register to vote like him; if you disagree, register to vote against his candidates. But, anyway, be sure that you are registered.

Plan to go to that rally at the First Presbyterian church. You'll hear something from an eye-witness in the South Pacific that will thrill you.

In one report Mussolini is said to have been rescued and in another slain. Take your choice—and we have a hunch it will be the same as ours.

It's No Use, Adolf, We're Onto Her Game, Too

What it Means

By ROBERT M. FARRINGTON

WASHINGTON—Lurking around the next curve in railroad history is a holdup that will make Jesse James' interferences with train schedules look like improvements over the 1943-44 running time.

The threatened hold-up can be summed up in two words: Manpower shortage. Heading the posse already riding to prevent it is Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman, with a 13-point program stuffed in his trusty holster.

Would Ask Legislation

If his program doesn't work, Eastman has promised labor and management alike he will ask Congress for legislation to keep the railroad wheels turning. Everyone should co-operate, he advises, but just in case it doesn't seem worth while to all parties, he points out the government can take over the railroads and deal "dictatorially" with the situation.

What makes the railroad manpower shortage unique among industry shortages that preceded it is the almost total lack of figures. Nobody knows how many men (or women) the railroads will need to avert the shortage, how many will be followed by following Eastman's program, how many are draft-eligible or how many left for other jobs in the past year.

In the fiscal year 1942-43, railroads hired 1,000,000 new workers, twice as many as the previous year. How much of this represents labor turnover and how much increased employment, is anyone's guess.

Eastman hopes to dig out some of the missing figures with his program. The first of the points demands immediate filing of "replacement schedules" by railroads and the second demands that selective service be used to which and how many employees may be induced, and when these will be ready for call.

Feel All Needed

So far most of the companies have refrained from touching the schedules with a ten-foot pole. They take the view that all of their employees are needed to do a high-gear job day after day, and don't want any induced.

Selective service, however, keeps right on taking railroad men, so Eastman suggests that the roads list their draft-eligible men and agree to an orderly withdrawal and replacement system.

Some of the replacements could be women, the ODT feels. Traditionally, railroads have been one of the hardest industries to open up for women. The Southern Pacific and the Pennsylvania are employing about 10 per cent women, other roads less than 3 per cent, but this isn't even near the limit, says ODT. Conservative railroad men are taking a lot of convincing that many of the lighter jobs could be done by females.

A relatively minor problem is the elimination of peacetime "featherbedding" practices, Eastman says. "Substantial numbers of train and engine service men are not working full time, he said, because of limitations designed to spread the work and employ as many men as possible.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has the power to suspend these limitations, he warns, or as an alternative, labor service management could mutually agree to this suspension, he adds, popping the big stick back in the closet. Other important features of his 13-point program include a special recruiting program to get more workers, "flying squads" of trained personnel to move into trouble areas, and the use of prisoners of war and more Mexican laborers (15,000 of whom are now doing track work) for certain jobs.

Hollywood Gossip

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Of all sad words spoken repeatedly by actors, the saddest (through triteness and repetition) are these:

"I want a part I can get my teeth into."

"I like pictures, but I miss the feel of a live audience."

"I would love to go back to the theater, if only I could find a play."

The ambitious role-masticators invite the suggestion that, pending fulfillment of their heart's desire, they merely continue to chew the scenery.

The "live audience" yearners need to be reminded firmly, that live audiences have been known to throw tomatoes as well as bravos. You don't hear this one so much since the war has made live audiences available at any military camp. The yearners are either doing their stuff, or keeping quiet because they're ashamed of not doing their stuff.

The "live audience" yearners need to be reminded firmly, that live audiences have been known to throw tomatoes as well as bravos. You don't hear this one so much since the war has made live audiences available at any military camp. The yearners are either doing their stuff, or keeping quiet because they're ashamed of not doing their stuff.

A number of movie stars, genuinely devoted to the stage, get back to Broadway regularly and zealously. Fredric March and Florence Eldridge, Katharine Hepburn, and Paul Muni are among the more persistent. None of these seem to have any lasting difficulty in finding suitable vehicles, a difficulty which is apparently insurmountable—and a beautiful alibi—for some of the cinema lights who talk such wonderful theater.

Muni has gone back in some flops and in some successes, but he seldom fails to go when the urge comes. Recently he revived his hit, "Counselor at Law," in lieu of a new play, and was pleasantly received. The Marches have gone to Broadway in vehicles that brought critics down on them like vengeful bricks, and they have gone in his like "Skin of Our Teeth." Miss Hepburn took a beating for one mistake, "The Lake," but triumphed later with "The Philadelphia Story." Actors who like the theater may not like to flop, but they don't stay away from it for fear they will.

IT'S supposed to be good for an actor's soul—at least that's the thing—to leave pictures periodically for the stage, and that's why there is such a cult of "if I could find a play" stars. It's a thing to say, indicating presumably that the cultist is awake to the finer things and has a soul.

What it really indicates is that the actor (1) is just making conversational noises, or (2) is beginning to feel guilty about his salary, his swimming pool and other appurtenances of movie stardom; or (3) really might like to stage-act but is scared silly of a flop.

Food Wholesalers Seeking Rational Post-War Business

"The threat of inflation is the greatest hazard for merchants as well as consumers," according to R. B. Caywood, president of the National-American Wholesale Grocers' Association, with which many of the firms operating in this area are affiliated. "It is hard to understand why so many seem to confuse inflation with prosperity. It is unlikely that anyone would admit he wants inflation but the acts of many belie their words. One even feels that some, not only industrialists but labor and farm leaders, feel that the war offers an opportunity to become rich. It is difficult to understand this attitude when we consider what is happening on the battle fronts all over the world. There seems to be a serious lack of realization that the stage is set with potentials for inflation—not the kind that followed the first war, but inflation, the like of which we have never before seen in this country."

"The food wholesale distributors must continue to cope with such mounting problems as scarcity of merchandise, rise in costs, and personnel inefficiency due to a fast turnover. The wholesale grocery distributors have taken the view that brings hardships and demands sacrifice, that we must be subjected to certain controls and regulations; that we must eliminate ambition to use the war as means of acquiring wealth; that we should study these problems objectively and sit down with those who carry the responsibility of writing necessary regulations, helping to minimize, as much as possible, consistent with the needs of total war, the hardships and sacrifices that must be made by industry."

"The contribution of the wholesale grocery distributors to the war program can be roughly divided into actual performance on the home front and its cooperation with the governmental agencies. On the home front these accomplishments are of two kinds—the voluntary contribution based on patriotism and intelligent self-interest, and that resulting from mandatory regulation."

Probably the most important voluntary contribution of the industry has been the tremendous amount of work done by salesmen in interpreting rules and regulations for the retail trade. The amount of time so spent varies with different wholesale grocers but it is no exaggeration to say that at least 25 percent of the average salesman's time is taken up in this way. He is also assuming responsibility for working out fair and equitable allotments of scarce merchandise, handling ration stamp problems, stimulating the retailer's efforts to maintain volume by emphasis on unrationed merchandise and many other items too numerous to mention.

Intelligent wholesale grocers have been active in helping the retailer reduce costs and make his store more attractive by remodeling and rearrangement. Modern store arrangement has increased traffic, has reduced manpower needed by the retailer, and has made him more competitive with other forms of retail operations.

On the mandatory side, the wholesale grocery distributors have complied almost 100 percent with the regulations of ODT on the conservation of equipment, rubber and gasoline with both necessary passenger cars and trucks. It has responded in a cooperative spirit to the War Food Administration, Office of War Information, and Office of Price Administration.

"The war is teaching us a great many things. While some merchants may go, others who have the necessary qualifications will come in. After the war we look for a sound and healthy independent wholesale and retail food distributing structure than ever before in our history."

Presbyterian Get-Together Is Planning For Meeting Sept. 24

The Presbyterian church and Sunday school get-together takes place on Friday, September 24, at the church. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock by the DeForest class headed by Mrs. John Swick, and the Elvidge class under Miss Mabel Siggins.

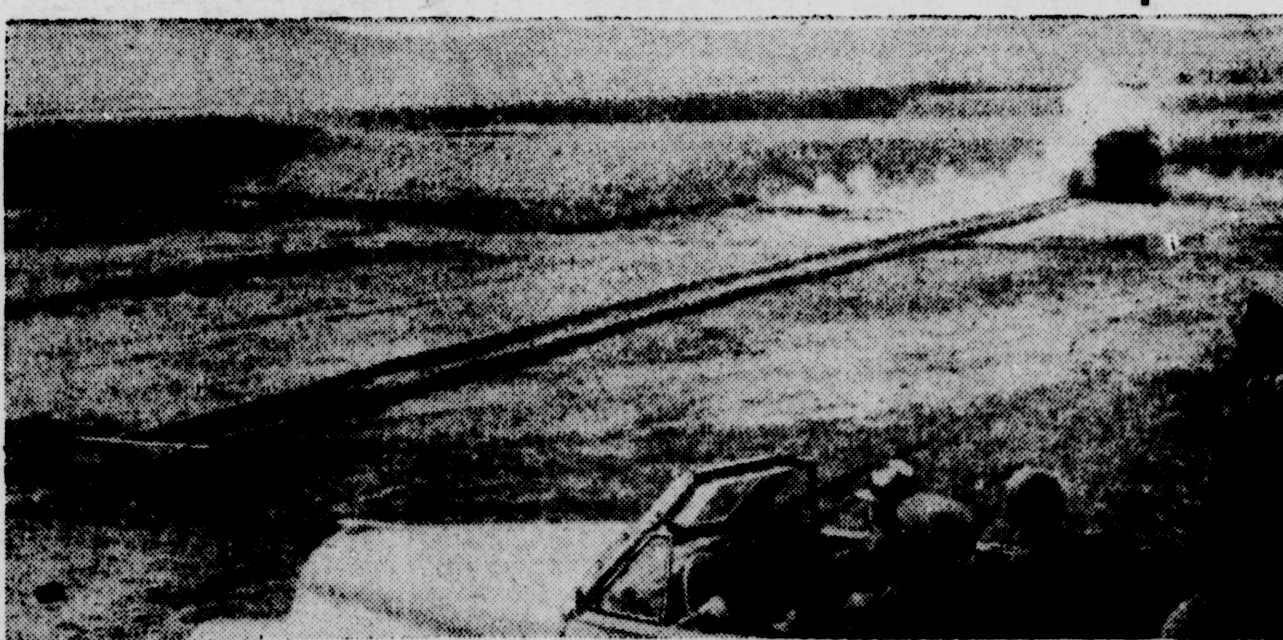

Tickets are available through the Sunday school classes, and department heads or at the church office. Reservations must be made by Wednesday, the 22d, none being sold at the door. Each one is asked to bring table service, and must present a ticket.

The Kitchen classes, under Mrs. George Daum, and the Dickson class under Mrs. Engelhard, are supervising the distribution of the tickets, and Mrs. C. L. Knowlton, 887M, will accept reservations. The May R. Stone class with its president, Miss Hazel Thurston, will have charge of the dining rooms.

The highlight of the evening will be the program which will follow supper, and will take place in the Sunday school auditorium. This is in charge of the Spinster class headed by Miss Martha Swick, and the Jefferson class under Mr. E. Ross Carlson. They promise some very surprising features which they will draw from their bag of tricks.

It is expected that Jackson Barrell, the new church organist, will be at the piano for the music of the evening. This get together affords a splendid opportunity for fellowship, and for newcomers to get acquainted, and will start the church activities with a fine spirit of united effort. Every one will wish to come, and are urged to make their reservations immediately in order to speed the work of the committees in charge. Keep the date—Friday, the 24th—for the church.

Rocket Gun in Action and Close-up

THE FANTASTIC-LOOKING WEAPON and its projectile are clearly shown in these two pictures. The rocket, at top, is self-propelled and carries a heavy charge of explosives that can knock out a tank. The bazooka itself (lower picture) is held and aimed by one man while a second soldier loads it. Its official name is "Launcher, Rocket, AT, M-1."

Homemade Sauerkraut For Winter Meals

Making some of the surplus cabbage into sauerkraut not only saves the cabbage but also will add variety to next winter's meals.

To make sauerkraut, select firm, well ripened heads of cabbage, says Mrs. Prendergast, Home Ec. Ext. Rep. of Warren County. Allow the heads to stand a day at room temperature so the cabbage will lose some of its crispness. This means the cabbage will cut without breaking too much and pack more easily.

Shred cabbage the thickness of a dime. Put it into a clean crock or keg, using a 3 to 4 inch layer of cabbage and a layer of salt. Pack the cabbage firmly but do not bruise. Packing is done to remove the air, not to press out any juice. A bottle makes a satisfactory measure. Use a half cut of plain salt to each 10 pounds of cabbage.

When the crock or keg is full, cover the cabbage with a clean cloth and a plate turned upside down. On the plate put a weight that is heavy enough to keep the cabbage under the brine that is formed. Keep the cloth inside the crock or keg to prevent loss of liquid. Put the crock or keg in a warm place, 70 to 86 degrees Fahrenheit, and allow the cabbage to ferment. This will take 10 days to 3 weeks, depending on the temperature. Fermentation is complete when the bubbling stops.

At the end of the fermentation period, the kraut may be packed into glass jars and processed in the boiling water bath. Process pint jars 25 minutes and quart jars 30 minutes. This processing insures the correct flavor and prevents spoilage. However, if the crock or keg can be stored in a cool place, the kraut may be left in it.

If only a small amount of sauerkraut is wanted, it may be made in glass jars, explains Mrs. Prendergast. Shred the cabbage, pack it into quart jars using 1 teaspoon of salt to each jar. Force a knife or spatula down through the center of the jars and fill with boiling water to cover the cabbage, allowing it to work through the cabbage. Place rubbers and covers on jars and screw lids on loosely. Set jars in an enamel pan and put in warm place to ferment. Every two or three days pour the liquid back into the jars. Bubbling will cease when fermentation is complete. Tap jars to remove air bubbles, then seal. It is not necessary to process the jars if a cool storage space is available.

Mrs. Prendergast gives the following reasons for spoilage in kraut: 1. If not enough salt is used; 2. If the cabbage is not well-packed; 3. If any of the juice is drained off; 4. If the crock or jar is not covered properly. Spoiled kraut has an off color and flavor and may have a poor texture.

B. P. W. Club Had Pleasant Dinner Meet

Youngsville, Sept. 15—Youngsville Business and Professional Woman's Club met Monday evening at the Forge clubhouse, with Miss Goldia Hill presiding at the business and program sessions. Though there were two summer picnics, a Mollie Pitcher and a Doodad collection through the summer, this was the first regular session for the newly-elected officers, who acted as a committee for this meeting.
A number of letters regarding the work of the B.P.W. were read, including a complimentary letter for the Youngsville club's part in the Molly Pitcher bond drive. The chairman of this drive, Mrs. R. L. Mead, also received a letter of appreciation of the local effort from Mrs. Sloan, state director of the drive.
An invitation to the district meeting to be held October 2 in Meadville was read. Miss Goldia Hill as president and Miss Elizabeth Bittle and Miss Matilda Kamber as delegates were chosen to represent the Youngsville club. There may also be others from here in attendance. The observation of

WHAT IS A BLOOSE?

A BLIND GOOSE; or a woman who hasn't tried Rumford. Wise ones know that Rumford—the all-phosphate double-acting baking powder—makes perfect baking doubly sure.

Business Week was also mentioned. The speaker of the evening was Mrs. E. G. Hamilton, of Warren, who spoke very interestingly of woman's part in the financial defense program of the nation. She urged a regular bond buying program as a project to be fostered in the club and community, suggesting the aim of enough bonds purchased to cover the cost of a definite piece of war equipment.
Mrs. Grace B. Siegfried, of Warren, accompanied Mrs. Hamilton as a guest of the club. Pleasing refreshments were served by the committee.
The October meeting will be held with Mrs. Gladys Swanson, with the program leader being Mrs. R. L. Mead and assistant hostesses Mrs. H. H. Hull and Miss Elizabeth Bittle. This meeting will continue the emphasis on the general program topic for the year, "Winning the War and the Peace."

WOMAN PASTOR COMING
The Youngsville United Brethren in Christ church will be greatly favored next Sunday morning when the Rev. Miss Ethel King, of Casey, Ky., will be guest speaker at 10 a. m. in the Sunday school and at 11 a. m. in the church service.

Miss King is a native of Chautauqua county, N. Y. She is a graduate of Clynch High School, Bonebrake Theological Seminary, Dayton, O., and Deaconess Hospital Training School at Buffalo, N. Y. She is a member of Erie Conference (U. B. Church) and is an employee of the home mission board of the church and is stationed in Kentucky. She pastors a church, ministers to the medical as well as the spiritual needs of the community, manages a community center program and is general counselor to the community. Her message next Sunday morning will be about her mission work among the underprivileged folks in Kentucky. All are invited to hear her message.

Mrs. Frank Johnson, of College street, will be hostess Friday afternoon, September 17. Friends as well as members are invited. An interesting program is scheduled.

Instructions For Workers In Third War Loan Drive Are Submitted By Committee

K. L. Barrett, executive secretary of War Finance Committee, has submitted instructions for all volunteer workers in the third War Loan drive to the committee. It is extremely important that required information be accurate and correctly given so that bonds can be issued to the purchasers without delay.

Workers are asked to note especially the spaces appearing below heading on the order form "Registration Instructions". These spaces should be filled in on all orders. When bond is to be registered in one name only, name and address of person should be printed plainly as follows:

JOHN W. JONES
00 Blank Street
Warren, Penna.
Payable on Death to
MISS JENNIE R. JONES

If purchaser is a woman, the word should be sure and state whether it is Miss or Mrs. When bond is to be registered with two persons as coowners, name and addresses of both owners should be plainly printed as follows:

JOHN W. JONES
00 Blank Street
Warren, Penna.

MRS. MARY S. JONES

In case of husband and wife as coowners, be sure and give wife's given name as shown above, instead of filling in merely "Mrs. John Jones."

When bond is to be registered with two persons, one as beneficiary, names and addresses of both should be plainly printed as shown here:

JOHN W. JONES
00 Blank Street
Warren, Penna.

Payable on Death to
MISS JENNIE R. JONES

Volunteers are reminded to seek payment, whenever possible, by check. When payment is received by check, the YELLOW copy should be left with the purchaser. This is the purchaser's receipt. The other three copies, with check, should be turned in to post leader or team captain. When purchaser does not have a checking account, the order form should be filled in completely and all four copies turned over to post leader or team captain. The purchaser may then by appearing at the bank or post office he or she has specified on the order form with cash, receive his or her bond immediately.

Mrs. Naylor Plans To Open Studio

After intensive and concentrated study with Madame Stauber, one of the foremost voice authorities of Europe, who is now in New York, Elizabeth Naylor has returned to open her studio for the fall season.

Madame Stauber was the only teacher of singing to whom Dr. von Neumann, chief of the clinic for laryngology of the University of Vienna, would send patients, whose throat ailments were caused by wrong vocal production. Mrs. Naylor will be pleased to receive any who desire consultation regarding their vocal possibilities.

INSECT DAMAGE

Insect pests in the United States eat food crops valued at about $900,000,000 every year, with the corn-eat worm alone accounting for $104,000,000.

Lunch Program in Schools Is Explained In Letter to Parents

Letters have been sent to the parents of the pupils of the First and Second Grades of the public schools giving details of the arrangements that have been concluded for lunch for the pupils. Arrangements have also been concluded for the hot lunch program in the upper grades and these are also appended.

A copy of the letter sent to the homes is as follows:

Beginning on next Monday, September 20, all pupils in the Warren Public Schools will be able to buy one-half pint of milk each day at special price. This half-pint of milk will be served in grades 1 to 6 about mid-forenoon and in High School and Beauty at noon time. The price of the half-pint of milk will be two and one-half cents (2½c).

This very low price is made possible by the Federal Government. The War Food Administration pays to the School District two cents (2c) for each half pint of milk served. Such an agreement was entered into by the Board of School Directors at its meeting in September. The Federal Government sets forth as its reason for such a subsidy, to quote from the agreement, "to insure that children, including children from the low income groups, will have one nutritious meal each day and in order to aid American farmers in the long-term development of better domestic markets for agricultural commodities."

Only those pupils who purchase tickets in advance may benefit by this special price.

Friday, September 17, tickets will be placed on sale. The price for ten (10) tickets entitling the holder to one-half pint of milk for each school day for ten school days will be twenty-five cents (25c).

Those who do not purchase tickets may purchase one-half pint of milk at the regular price of five cents (5c).

The School District will supply straws and tickets and provide other expenses of operation.

Because of the additional work placed upon teachers, tickets will be on sale every tenth school day. Please make your arrangements accordingly.

This special notice is being sent only to parents of pupils in grades one and two. It should, however, be emphasized that tickets are on sale for all pupils of all grades. The price for ten tickets entitling any pupil to a single half pint of milk for each school day for ten days is twenty-five (25c) cents.

At the same time and under the same agreement, regular lunches at High School and Beauty will be reduced from twenty-five cents (25c) to twenty cents (20c). The Federal Government will pay to the School District six cents (6c) on each lunch which is served under specific conditions. According to these conditions, Type B lunches will be served. The specifications for Type B lunches are (1) "One-half pint of fresh whole milk as a beverage; (2) one ounce of meat or fish, or one-half of an egg, or one ounce of cheese, or one-fourth cup of dry peas, beans, soybeans, or two tablespoons of peanut butter; (3) one-half cup of vegetables or fruit; (4) one or more slices of bread or muffins or other hot bread, made of whole grain or enriched flour or cereal; (5) one teaspoon of butter or oleomargarine with added vitamin A."

These lunches will be built around a main dish or a sandwich or a plate meal.

G. L. F. Plans Meeting On September 23

(Special to The Times-Mirror) Youngsville, Sept. 16.—Ellis Martin of Youngsville, committee chairman announced that the annual meeting of local G. L. F. members will be held in the Grange Hall here on Thursday evening, September 23, at eight fifteen o'clock. Members are being urged to ride together to save gas.

Principal feature of the meeting will be a discussion of needed and available supplies for 1944 farm production. Shortages of many vital supplies, including gasoline, farm machinery and feed, have shown up during the past year and those in charge of the meeting pointed out that farmers are anxious to know where they stand for 1944 so they can plan their production accordingly.

The program, Mr. Martin said, will include the election of two members of the local G. L. F. committee D. W. Mourer of Youngsville and Ira Johnson of Sugar Grove, whose terms have expired. C. E. Dayton, district manager of the cooperative, will report on the past year's business, following which announcement will be made of the amount and form in which the 1943 patronage dividend will be paid farmers.

In addition to Mr. Mourer and Mr. Johnson, other committee members working with Mr. Martin in planning and preparing for the meeting are L. T. Hale and Archie Jackson of Youngsville and G. E. Lawson of Irvine, Pa. C. Malone.

New and Tempting! Snowy Lamb Loaf

One of the best ways to perk up appetites is to make a meal attractive. This Snowy Lamb Loaf makes it easy for you—and stretches your meat points besides! It's so tasty... so delicious looking, your family will say it's the best loaf they ever ate. And they'll be right!

The loaf—made of ground Armour's Star lamb shoulder—is covered with a layer of white, creamy whipped potatoes... looks like a party sandwich loaf! We suggest Star Lamb shoulder because it's young, mild and tender, with that savory goodness that lamb lovers recognize as just right. Mix together 2 lbs. ground Armour's Star lamb shoulder, 2 tps. salt, 1/4 clove minced garlic, 1/2 cup Armour's Evaporated milk, 1 Cloverbloom egg and 1/2 cup fine cracker crumbs. Pack in loaf pan and bake 1 hour and 20 minutes at 325° F. When the loaf is baked, turn out on a cookie sheet or flat pan. Then frost with hot mashed potatoes, heaping them lightly on top. Place in oven long enough to brown the potatoes slightly... about 10 minutes. This loaf will serve six or seven.

Grapes And Dogs Bother Local Police

"Cabbages and kings" might have been alright to talk about in the days of Alice in Wonderland but the local police have changed it to "dogs and grapes". Last evening they doggedly pursued a bunch of boys who were holding forth in grape arbors around town. The luscious blue fellows are being watched with might and main by their owners who have visions of grape butter and marmalade and such for the bleak days of winter but the kids like 'em as is. So many calls are made to the cops and the kids duck and dodge the owners and cops and spit out the seeds. Many of the older folks around the town can still remember some of their favorite arbors. Juvenile delinquency? Bosh, just kid stuff.

And the dogs! Must be sort of hard on a dog to be a citizen of Warren. What with war workers trying to sleep and Victory Gardens a swell place to bur bones and flower beds wherein to gambol the outlook is promising but touchy folks call the police and its away for a ride in the police car and visit to the pound and then—The Garbage Disposal plane. A dogs life—you don't know the half of it. And the cops! Now there is sumpin. They have to cajole, coax and talk nice to the doggies in order to get the pups into the police car. And some of the dogs try to nibble on the putes of the policemen and that not only spoils the shine but mars the leather and leather is a war material. Ever try to get a vicious dog into a car? Now if you have you know all the answers and here's bettin' the cops would appreciate any tips you can give 'em on that score.

Correspondent Speaking Here Friday Has Thrilling Record

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church public-spirited Warren county citizens will have the opportunity of hearing an eye-witness account of action in the Pacific war theatre told only as one man can tell it. That man is Joe James Custer, United Press Correspondent, who has covered the Pacific area from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo. He was wounded and lost the sight of his

"Hornet" and saw them turn their noses toward Tojo's domain. In short he's seen history being made by our brave sailors, marines and soldiers; he's stood shoulder to shoulder with them when they faced death from Jap guns and bombs. If anybody is qualified to tell the story of American heroism in the Pacific theatre, that man is Joe James Custer.

Another big shipment of matter requiring the handling of 48 pieces and totalling over 6000 pounds has been shipped to the west coast and next week another big shipment of heavy matter is also being arranged.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKown

At the age of twelve, a Southern lad named Robert Scott made up his mind that he wanted to be an air pilot. Accordingly, he built himself a glider—and crashed sixty-seven feet onto a rose bush when he flew it out into space. Undaunted, a year later he bought a wartime Jenny, which the Government was auctioning off, for seventy-five dollars. A street-car conductor who had once been a pilot taught him to fly it.

That was the beginning of the career of a man who knew what he wanted—and who got it. Colonel Robert Scott tells his story in "God Is My Co-Pilot." At the time of Pearl Harbor, Scott was thirty-four. He applied for combat duty and was told that he was too old, although he might be an instructor. He began writing letters to Generals. He kept on until he received a telephone call from Washington:

"Have you ever flown a four-engined ship?" He hadn't, but he was sure he could. His first assignment was to fly one of a squadron of Fortresses to China. There he was assigned to the Assam-Burma-China ferry command that was to keep the supply line to China open after the Japs had closed the Burma Road. It was a dangerous mission. But not dangerous enough for Scott.

Using his remarkable powers of persuading Generals, he procured for himself a P-40 fighter from General Claire Chennault and set himself up, besides his ferrying duties, as a one-man spare time branch of China's Fighting Tigers. He was finally made commander of all the fighters in China under Chennault. Almost half his book deals with the exciting and dangerous exploits of himself and his comrades during this period.

The Book-of-the-Month Club announces a dual selection for November. One book is "The Battle Is The Pay-off," by Captain Ralph Ingersoll, an account of this former newspaper editor's experiences in North Africa, in which he tells how our army is trained and how this training takes effect in battle, the battle in this case being the fight for North Africa. The second book is "The Little Locksmith," by Katharine Butler Hathaway, the autobiographical story of a crippled girl's search for spiritual beauty.

"Front Line," the official story of the civil defense of Britain, which sold more than one million copies in England within six weeks, tells of the remarkable lack of hysteria among British citizens during the Nazi blitz. One authority did prophesy that if Jerry kept up continuous raids night after night on a place like Liverpool, a lot of people would disappear. Someone asked him, "And when would they come back?" The authority smiled. "Next morning," he said.

DID THE WRONG MAN DIE?

JANE CARTER was sure her boss, Chester Billingsley, was an Axis agent when she found a certain letter in the files. But a short time later she walked in and found him murdered. G-Man Brad Forrester added to her confusion by telling her Billingsley was not an Axis agent but was aiding him to track down a sabotage ring. When Jane was tipped off that Forrester was not a G-Man but an imposter she realized that anything can happen.

AIR RAID TEST

What is expected to be announced as the first of the "surprise" air raid tests staged by the Army was held this afternoon about 2:35. The sirens blew and it was interesting to see the widens scurry to their posts and the people get off the streets.

The Army recently announced that it would call some tests without notice to anyone, and this is thought perhaps to have been of that origin.

Vital Plants On Continent Are Targets

dusk assault by a combined force of American Flying Fortresses, Liberators and Marauders which raided the Paris area. Here the Hispana-Suiza and Caudron-Renault aircraft plants and a ball bearing works were the main targets.

At the same time German air raiders subjected suburban London to one of its severest bombings in months.

The raid on Paris marked the first time that Fortresses, Liberators and Marauders had joined in the same operation in the European war theatre and the first time they had gone out and come home after dusk. Brig. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson, commander of the U. S. Eighth Air Force Bomber Command, pronounced the experiment a success and presaging the possibility that they would soon team up with the RAF in bombing Europe by night.

Last night's operations cost the RAF eight bombers and two fighters, the air ministry said. One enemy plane was shot down.

While other night bombers were stabling at Berlin and northwest Germany, RAF fighter squadrons attacked enemy air fields and transport targets in intruder operations over France.

There was no indication that the Berlin raid, apparently carried out by light Mosquito bombers, was anything like the saturation attacks with loads of 1,000 tons of explosives, the last of which was made against the German capital Sept. 4.

The burst of widespread activity in the past 24 hours ended a lull in the extensive Allied air activities against western Europe which followed the climax of an eight-day non-stop offensive against the continent a week ago.

These bombing forays were supported by swarms of Allied fighters, including American P-47 Thunderbolts and a U. S. communiqué said 16 enemy planes were shot down as the Nazis tried unsuccessfully to beat off the raiders.

Allied losses yesterday were listed officially as six heavy bombers and three fighters.

Four German planes also were reported shot down last night—three over Britain and another over northern France.

Premier Joseph Stalin celebrated the fall of Nazism in another order of the day, turning it "the most important center of the Germans' defense on the road to Kiev."

Wednesday's fighting cost the Germans in all more than 6,000 dead and they surrendered more than 200 towns and villages as they fell back before the relentless Red army, the Russians said.

There was no indication anywhere that the enemy would halt short of the Dnieper river, which they have built into a formidable defense barrier.

Forest Depletion is Called Community Problem by Chief Of Service in Signed Article

(By Lyle F. Watts, Chief, U. S. Forest Service)

Forest conservation is no longer a subject which can be effectively discussed in generalities. From the standpoint of timber supply, as well as recreation and watershed protection, the critical character of our forestry problem can only be understood by going behind the over-all statistics for the nation as a whole and viewing the situation regionally, locally and in its component parts. It is necessary to get right down to the individual worker who wants security in his job and a permanent home for his family.

For more than 50 years the question of the nation's timber supply has been a matter of major public concern. The people were first aroused in the days of Gifford Pinchot and Theodore Roosevelt by predictions of an early "timber famine." Then with the culmination of agricultural expansion, and the acceleration of industrial life, public concern waned. Declining consumption of lumber, substitutions of other materials for construction, furniture and other fields originally dominated by wood, and chronic threat of overproduction from mill capacity in excess of demand, led many to believe that Pinchot had been wrong, even though whole regions had been so thoroughly stripped of merchantable timber that local forest industry was little more than a memory.

Prolific second growth in parts of the Northeast and most of the South seemed to many to discount forever the possibility that a national timber shortage would materialize. Concern about timber for the future was further allayed by shadowing a much wider use of wood by chemical conversion. To many the prospect that pulping and chemical processes might completely supplant the use of wood in its natural form seemed so real that any forestry beyond protection from fire seemed quite needless and futile.

But continued exploitation at a rate far in excess of current growth, disturbing increases in the area of non-productive land suitable only for forests, and inescapable social and economic maladjustments in many cut-over regions led others to realize that the problem remained critical. These far-sighted leaders realized that, in spite of substantial progress with respect to national forests, systematic fire protection, and management for sustained yield by private operators, cumulative forest depletion was still undermining at hundreds of points an indispensable part of the foundation on which national prosperity had been built.

A comprehensive analysis, made in 1932 in response to a Senate resolution, failed to bring the divergent points of view together. Exponents of laissez-faire pointed out that as a result of the drastic slump in production and a raising of growth estimates as forest survey data became available, an approximate balance between growth and drain had been reached. But output of forest products during that period was at a discouragingly low level. In 1933 lumber output dropped to less than one-fourth the previous peak. In 1938 it had recovered only half the loss. Unemployment was a problem of major proportions throughout the country. Surely we do not wish to measure progress in terms of that period. But even then, concentration of attention on national and regional statistics masked the precarious position of many forest communities throughout the country.

Now under the exigencies of war, requirements for forest products are again on the level which prevailed in the years before the depression. Scarcity of metals, coupled with spectacular developments in the use of wood for structural purposes and challenging vistas of new fields of use for plywood, plastics and chemical products, now focus attention on wood as an indispensable and versatile raw material which should enjoy large and perhaps expanding outlets so long as it is abundantly available at a reasonable price.

In the light of accelerated forest depletion brought on by the war and the better outlook for future wood utilization, the problem of timber supply presses anew for solution. But even before this country entered the war, a joint congressional committee confirmed the conclusion of the Forest Service that the public interest in continued productivity of private forest lands could only be protected by public control of cutting and other closely related practices on such lands.

A large part of the strategy of those who oppose public action goes beyond cooperation and aid in based on a philosophy of complacency—using statistics for the nation as a whole to support the thesis that there is really no cause for concern. The impression is created that progress in forestry has been so widespread in recent years that a satisfactory balance between growth and drain is only temporarily deferred by wartime activity. Rapid liquidation of virgin timber in the West is glossed over as necessary to forestall losses from insects and disease and as beneficial in releasing additional areas for new growth. Viewing the picture solely on a statistical basis, it has been argued that wartime forest depletion is not serious anyway inasmuch as annual lumber cut has not exceeded 2% of the total remaining stand of merchantable sawtimber. Such complacency is dangerous.

Perhaps the most significant fact is that our eastern forests, constituting three-fourths of our total commercial forest area, now contain less sawtimber than the 6% of our forest land in western Washington and Oregon. Our continued ability to draw heavily upon the remaining virgin forests of the Northwest neither keeps mills running nor provides employment for people in the depleted forest regions of the East. It doesn't give much help to the forest community in Michigan or Louisiana, whose sawmills have been closed for lack of timber, to know that there are 70 billion feet of almost untouched timber in Douglas County, Oregon. It doesn't help Klamath County in the pine region just over the mountains, where the timber resource is being liquidated three times faster than it ought to be.

Even in agricultural sections of the East, productive woodland on individual farms has a significance which cannot be expressed in national statistics. Through a well developed forestry enterprise, net income of dairy farms in central New York, for example, may be

PAPER NEED IS GREAT

The Advisory Committee on Salvage of the State Council of Defense, the Salvage Division of the War Production Board and the Eastern Conservation Committee of the Waste Paper Consuming Industries request your active cooperation and support in the current campaign for the salvaging of waste paper of all kinds.

The State Council of Defense has asked the county and local Councils of Defense, through their county and local salvage committees, to conduct an all-out campaign for the collection of all kinds of waste paper. In many parts of the state these campaigns are well under way; in others the salvage committees are just getting started.

The Waste Paper Conservation Committee, in a full page advertisement in the current issue of the PNPA Bulletin, points out that "more waste paper salvaged can mean more pulpwood released to other users."

Thus, it is our belief that the newspapers, by giving us their fullest cooperation in this waste paper salvage program, will be materially assisting the war program and at the same time will be aiding their own newspaper situation.

We are grateful to the publishers of Pennsylvania's newspapers for the consistent aid they have given to the Council of Defense's various salvage programs, and trust they shall continue to support these programs until victory is ours.

increased about 15% on the average. Such an enterprise need not compete seriously with other farm activities as to time. It offers opportunity to more completely utilize available labor and equipment. It gives farmers a larger degree of independence and security. It may spell the difference between a profitable and a sub-marginal farm unit. Such economic benefits to thousands of farmers should not be neglected. They cannot be offset by the large-scale, highly mechanized logging operations of the Northwest. Nor will careful management of public forests, no matter how widely they may be distributed, compensate fully for those values which are inherent in the property of individual living and working on the land.

The forest problem of any community or region cannot be viewed solely as one of balancing annual growth against forest drain. When the process of forest liquidation is allowed to take its course unchecked, the reduction of industrial activity which follows exhaustion of merchantable timber, will eventually lead to a balance between growth and drain at a level where the contribution of the forests to the economic life of the community is at a vanishing point.

On the other side of the picture development of the full productive capacity of forest lands implies a decentralization and diversification of industry which should be wholesome and stimulating in its social significance. Because of their low value in relation to bulk, most forest products cannot well stand transportation for long distances. Primary conversion plants therefore, must be kept close to the timber. In addition, the full utilization, which is an inseparable attribute of intensive forest management, encourages establishment in the rural communities of new industries using or fabricating wood in various forms.

The town of Crossett, Arkansas, affords an outstanding example of such sound industrial and community development based on far-sighted and intensive forest management. Here pulp and paper manufacture were first added to the original lumber industry to provide effective utilization for much of the lower grade material, especially yielded by early cuttings in second growth pines. Then a wood distillation plant was established as an outlet for the hardwood which was impeding growth of the pine in some areas. Each new development has created additional employment in the community without the threat of future collapse because each has been planned in relation to the productive capacity of the forest.

In every forest region industrial operators have recognized the economic advantages of permanence for their industries and stability for the dependent communities. The number of cases where a start has been made on long-range forest management to insure a sustained supply of raw material for local industries has grown tremendously in the past decade. Many sound industrial forestry programs have been under way for longer periods.

Federal action is needed and national welfare demands public regulation of basic forest practices, supported by public aid and assistance to private forest land owners on a large scale. For the sustained yield we should achieve on a community basis is not measured in board feet alone. It is something much broader. Sustained yield of forest products at a high level implies reasonable security for labor and a substitution of a family man for the transient bunk-house worker characteristic of the pioneer lumber industry. It justifies confidence in building, buying and improving homes. It assures a continuity of business for the local butcher, baker and candle-stick maker. It helps to maintain the tax base by stabilizing timber values on the one hand and by putting a firm foundation under seal estate, the social life, and improvement values on the other. The school system, the social life, and the health agencies of the community are part and parcel of sustained yield.

To a very large degree achievement of the President's goal of freedom from want and freedom from fear is inherent in the prosperous and stable communities which permanently productive forests will induce.

They Are Saying: about the Home Front Pledge Campaign

Black markets are good for no one. It may seem at the time like a smart move, but if indulged in by all of us will bring inflation swirling around us faster and faster like a great whirlpool. Coming home from church, President Coolidge was asked what the sermon was about. He replied in his usual laconic way: "Sin, and he was against it." We feel the same about the black market.
